Board members presented the gift to the school's students, teachers, staff, and families at back-to-school night on Aug. 30.

Cal Poly professor Dan Krieger spoke at the event regarding the historical significance of Lange's photos.

"We are very excited to have these remarkable photos, along with cards providing descriptions and historical context, so that our students can see them on a regular basis," Principal Irene Iwan said.

The exhibit was created by Cal Poly student Ashley

Fletcher as a project for a class taught by Krieger.

Vivian Krug and Craig Rock, both of the historical society, also contributed, expanding the number of photographs in the collection. The exhibit is on display in the school's computer lab.
